

We're just checking in to say

You're doing a GREAT job!

Please remember you are, and always have been, your child's main educator.

You know your child better than anyone else in the world.

We want to reassure you that you don't have to try to be a superhero and have your child complete every piece of home learning sent out by us. We are providing a variety of materials to support you, however we do not want you to feel overwhelmed - just give it a go and help your child the best you can.

Please know that learning can take many different forms. There are so many things you can teach at home that are fun! You could spend time baking a cake (there's lots of maths in that!), you can be a creative writer by going on an adventure together around the house, you can dig out that old science set and be scientists together, or just snuggle up and read a good book together. When you need a rest there are plenty of online stories and activities to be found just read the letter we have sent out to find some good ones.

Children learn more when they are enjoying what they do - but they will learn much more when you are relaxed and enjoying too!

Of course routine is important, so we have sent out a timetable with links to activities you might want to follow throughout the day.

Just remember you are doing your very best in a very strange and unprecedented situation, you are trying to work and teach and care all at the same time and doing your best is all anyone can do!

Take care and keep safe!
